To whom it may concern:

Grant Johnson has been an incredible mentor to the Broadcast Journalism students here at Lorene Rogers Middle School. As a new-to-the-field instructor, I have also benefited from Grant's vast Broadcast knowledge.

To begin with, Grant helped facilitate a field trip for our middle school students when they visited the high school Broadcast studios. He had a beautiful presentation prepared which showed our middle schoolers how to create a professional news story, in addition to professionally done news packages.

Grant has also taught about the high school Broadcast program to Rogers students as a whole, and he has personally mentored a few of my students in how they can improve their news stories. In addition, Grant has happily and quickly shared how his Broadcast was set up, as he orchestrated the ins and outs of Eagle Nation News - starting as a Junior in high school. I have used many of his organizational strategies to help improve my Broadcast students' work.

In short, Grant can do anything he puts his mind to - and he does an incredible job at it.

Sincerely,
